Happy Mother's day....

The students of any generation do look up to their elders in the family and try to imitate them. Having a role model within the family is so common and absolutely obvious because of the bond that we as family members share with each other, especially in our Indian culture. To make our students think a little and identify that one member of the family who has inspired them the most, was the exercise taken up with them on the occasion of World family day. The presentation by the Grade 6 students was quite thought provoking when they spoke about their role model from their family. The children apart from saying a few lines about their role models also took this opportunity to enact as them. The pride in their presentation was worth watching.

Wishing you a lot of happiness in this togetherness. Hold on to each other, because you will always have your family by your side as your unconditional support system. Bringing the precious moments together, the Grade VII students collated their old photo albums, printed some of their vacation pictures, wedding pictures of family members and celebration pictures and transformed them all into a beautiful family scrapbook.

Family is the most precious and wonderful gift of God. The amount of love you receive from your family is underestimated. Family day is a perfect opportunity to reconnect with all of your family members and show them how much love and appreciation you have for them.

Students of Grade VIII made a memorable slideshow with music using the captured pictures of their loved ones over the years. Seeing them do this activity like artistic passionate geniuses was a delight.

As rightly said by Michael J. Fox –Family is not an important thing. It's everything. ||

They included the pictures of their family members and described each member's personality with suitable adjectives. Overall, it was heartwarming to see the love and devotion of the students for their families.
