EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING

Nursery

Play-Doh Day is an opportunity for everyone, whether a child or simply young at heart, to celebrate this iconic modelling clay.

There is something very therapeutic about playing with play-dough. We know play-dough drives some parent's crazy - no matter how hard you try you always seem to get it on the bottom of your shoes and track it around the house, but we teachers feel the benefits far outweigh the mess.

Playdough is the work of the child, keeping this in mind we celebrated National Play Doh Day with our Nursery DIPsites.

Children enjoyed every aspect of the exploration of play dough. It was a never ending tactile learning experience for all children. When given play dough, children are instinctively motivated to explore its soft and responsive sensory qualities. They squeezed it, poked it, squashed it, picked it up and patted it down. The dough responds to each of their actions and the students learnt that their actions have consequences.

It helped our tiny tots to build their imagination. Playing with Doh is fun!
